OFFICE OF THE HEADMASTER

May 31, 1980

Dear Sixth Form,

While you were at Brooks, two Popes died, Idi Amin was driven from power in Uganda, inflation climbed from seven percent to seventeen percent, Britain acquired her first female Prime Minister, the Camp David accords were signed, the People's Temple met its macabre ending in Jonestown, the United States Embassy in Iran was seized, the Russians occupied Afghanistan, Marshal Tito died, one hundred thousand Cuban refugees entered the United States, the Equal Rights Amendment remained unratified and Mt. St. Helens erupted. If this is a sample of what took place in the space of three or four years, think what you may be called upon to face or respond to in your working lifetime! I know that you leave Brooks sharing our ideal of working toward a better world.'

You leave behind you many friends whom you have influenced in more ways than you can possibly realize. Mrs. Aitken and I count ourselves fortunate to be among them. We wish you well in all that the future may hold for you and we hope that, with the passing years, the place of Brooks in your hearts will be always strong and clear.

God speed.

Sincerely,

Peter Aitken

Go to now, ye that say, today or tomorrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain.

Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

In life, there are only two things to worry about; if you are sick, or if you are well. If you are well you have nothing to worry about, but if you are sick, you have two things to worry about, if you will get better, or if you will die. If you get better you have nothing to worry about, but if you die you have two things to worry about, if you go to heaven or if you go to hell. If you go to heaven you have nothing to worry about, and if you go to hell you will be spending so much time with old friends, you won't have time to worry

Out, out brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow;
a poor player
That struts and frets his hour
upon the stage,
And then is heard no more;
it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.

GRADUATION

The Last Chapel Service

As you see yet another senior step up into this pulpit towards the end of the year, I can see you looking at each other and saying "Oh no, he's going to tell us all what a great VIth form this was, or how he's really going to miss this place when he's gone!" — but that is not the reason I'm here. Enough has been said about us — I'd like to talk about you for a while, all of you who will be here next year, and for the few years after that.

You are all remarkable people — I look at you now and see many talents, and many different kinds of people. All of you are responsible for the path this school will follow in the next few years. Responsibility — it's often not a particularly pleasant word, and I must admit that it hasn't been one of my trademarks, but it is something that each of you must learn to deal with — especially those of you who will be VIth formers next year. I'm not talking about the 'responsibility' we often get yelled at about. When I ask you to be responsible, I am asking you to be responsible to each other. You owe it to yourselves to support each other in the endeavors you pursue with your many talents.

As Tom Robbins said,

"How we shape our understanding of others' lives is determined by what we find memorable in them, and that in turn is determined not by any potentially accurate overview of another's personality but rather by the tension and balance that exist in our daily relationships."

Too often we tend to find something unpleasant to be the most memorable item about someone else's life, and that is none too good. We are constantly criticizing — you know, 'She's fat, he's a geek,' and so forth. I am asking you now to see the good parts of your classmates, instead of the bad.

Each one of you has something that you can be proud of. Perhaps you are a student, or an athlete, or a musician, an artist, or an actor. Maybe you are trying to become one or more of those things, which is all right, do not choose to condemn the efforts of those around you. Brooks is a place designed to be a haven for your talents, so take advantage of what it offers.

When I said that you are all remarkable people, I meant it. Each one of you has the capacity to drive, to inspire, and to compel anyone else here. It really is possible — because of the way we are centered around one another; we took to each other for a great number of things: guidance, friendship, assistance, reassurance, and support. So give the positive things, and keep the negatives to yourself — let each other's shortcomings pass blind to your eyes, and encourage each other to accomplish as much as possible.

It's all yours now — make the most of it.
